FINE LIQUORS, pose. In this sea of human faces may be found all classes, and conditions, of social life—the old and the young the rich and the poor the scholar and the unlettered citizen, the student and the active worker, the venerable clergyman, the man of God and the man of the world, the merchant and the mechanic, the laborer and the professional classes, and especially, as ever, woman—a help-meet for man whilst he seems sinless in the very "image of God."

HONOR TO WOMAN. It is eminently appropriate that the me morial ecremonies of this day should be inaugurated under the auspices and by th inaugurated under the auspices and by the hand of Woman. First, always first, in the gentle ministries of mercy—first and most unselfish in all the duties of love, her ministry comes with the helplessness of infancy, travels along life's dark and troubled currents, and only closes with the final struggle of expiring existence. We to the man, we to the memory of that man, who forgets or denies that woman in her near and dear relations of wife and mother, next to God, deserves the love and adoration of the human race.

IN MEMORIUM.

IN MEMORIUM.

In the earliest bistory of mankind we have traces of the efforts of leve to preserve and penetrate the objects of affection. Failing in the preservation of the very objects, the mind and heart, unwilling to part with their idols, strive, by the arts of science, painting and statuary, to keep fresh and presence. This sentiment of our nature should be cherished and cultivated. We cannot gather the dust of our dead heroes from the hills and valleys of Virginia, the mountains of Tennessee or the other hundred battle fields of the war. We cannot distinguish the dust that TH MEMORITHM or the other hundred battle fields of the war. We cannot distinguish the dust that composed their bodies in life from the kin-dred dust. But we may assemble as we have done to day, to lay the corner stone of a Soldiers' Monument in commemoragave more than ten thousand of her sons to the battle field. Where are they? You who listen can best answer. Mourato the battle field. Where are they? You who listen can best answer. Mourning and bergeaved parents, widows and orphans answer! where are they? Hundreds sleep without grave or burial on the battle grounds won by their valor. Thousands passed to their long sleep, without the ministries of wife, mother or friend. Where are they! Flous care and personal love have gathered the bones of some of the loved ones, and they rest in the silent city of the dead, amongst their own people. In the cametery repose Hays, the brave and lion hearted. Rippey, youthful, gifted and eloquent. Black, I may be permitted to pause a viouent "atthat name. He was much misunderstood. He was a great lawyer; a courageous and gallant soldier; a witty, persusive and brilliant orator. But I must not attempt to name even those familiar to the public car. Too often we permit our applianse to dwell upon the officers—the prominent namesforgetting the unsurpassed hest of worthies, the private soldiers; the men who bore the brunt and shock of battle. Who shall speak thoir elogium? What eloquent tongue, glowing with the divine gift, shall tell of the heighth and depth, the lenigth and breadth of their pure patriotism. They shouldered the musket and marched to the front without the promptings of ambition; without the hope or expectation of earthly reward. Thoir names were not in the news bolletin or dispatch. Yet their reward is fine. Their names, unutered, are precous and seared in our hearts. Their faste is secure. It depends not on monuments built by the skill of man, or the cunning of the articler. "No storied urn or animated bust" can add to or detract from their glory. Their fame will be cheriabed as long as the mation endures; which their, valor rescued from the blighting grasp of human sharery.

he speeds him on his journey and be reminded that we claim the privilege of commemorating our part in the stapendous struggle for liberty and law. On the other hand the traveler on the broad bosoms of the Allegheny and Monongahels may, from the craft or steamer, discern that amidst the ambitions and excitements of thrifty business life, we have not forgotten that the posee and prosperity which dwells over our land, was purchased at the priceless cost of thousands of our bravest and our best.

WHAT THE MONUMENT IS FOR.

Thus monument will have a still higher office. It will stand as a witness between the living and the dead. It will be a witness against us if we prove recreant to the solemn trusts committed to our keeping. This grand inheritance of freemen, to be measured from the rock bound coast of the Pacific. It is ours in trust. Never before did the Creatry grant a keritage so ters in lakes and rivers; soils varied, rich deep and fruitful; untold and unexplored wealth of metals; gold and silver at the hand of labor for the mining. All this, many times told, would still leave our wealth and resources undescribed.

wealth and resources undescribed.

THE LESSON...

Above all, we have humain freedom, with room and verge enough for the exercise of all her powers, freedom of person, freedom of will, freedom of action; not an acre touched by the foot of a slave. No man need call another master. How grand the thought! How immense the 'trust! American citizens, do you comprehend its magnitude? The avenues of thought, open wise and boundless. Fathers! Mothers! What an inheritance for our children.

ur children: Commensurate with the trust is the re-

Commensurate with the trust is the responsibility.

We must prove ourselves worthy of the inheritance, or it will by a sure law pass away from our keeping. Sluggard hands can never grasp and hold the gift. The sleepless vigilance of our highest powers is demanded for the preservation of the ground domain. OUR DUTY.

It is our duty to teach our children by monuments, by precepts, by example, by all known modes of instruction, the value of this inheritance.

It is well to place on this eminence a memorial to remind coming generations that this inheritance was purchased by tooil, struggle and death.

Nine years ago Treason uplifted its impious form in the Southern States, svowing boldly that the charter of our liberties was a falsehood; that human slavery should be made the corner stone of our national fabrics. Many doubted and feared, some fainted, more sympathized with the treason; the wisest, the bravest and the best paused—the brightest vision could a sufferer. Still, the doughty champions imbibed.

They could neither comprehend the spirit or ap-lifty the intoxication effects of the base was simply for the content. Each glasse was said when the content. Each glasse was small whether with a view probably to milliv the intoxication effects of the base.

Glass after glass disappeared. When the Doctor vanquished his fiftieth glass, a friend, it is said, called—or rather carried—him out to visit a patient. The brewer, having completed his fitty-fifth potation, reluctantly rolled himself homeward, to renew the campaign on another day. The neighbors say that Dr. Firmond never left the house from that day until he was borne to the grave. Whether, the brewer died of spontaneous combustion or of joy at the victory be hed schieved, is not known; but certain it is that the funeral of Frederick Fries, the wealthy brower of Williamsburg, took place on Sunday, afternoon, from his late rasidence on Bushwick avenue. It munity consecrates this a sacred holiday.

MONUMENT HILL.

This eminence received the name Seminary Hill from the circumstance that are ligious body had a Seminary of instruction erected on its summit. None honor it more highly than we do. Religiou and its noble work and aims—nevertheless from this day forth let this hill once presend by foot of istudent and professor, change its name. Hereafter let it be known as "Monument Hill."

The ladica having charge of this enterprise have baptised it anew to the sacred purpose of commemorating the dead heroes, who died for religion and liberty, their God and their country.

WHY WE ARE GATHERED HERE.

Freis for the amount chained. The extent however, character here to see the cetate of Fries in the selection of Frederick Fries, the wealthy brower of Williamsburg, took place on Sunday, afternoon, from his late residence on Bushwick avenue. It is rumored in the neighborhood that much indignation is expressed by the families at the conduct or the saloon keeper, their God and their country.

WHY WE ARE GATHERED HERE.

Fries for the amount, claimed. The extent however, contends that Fries did not cerioren and threatens to sue the cetate of Fries for the amount, claimed. The exceening however, contends that Fries did not hose the wager, and the family of Firmons say he would have returned and ultimately proved the victor, had he not been taken ill and thus incapacitated from remewing the contest. And so the case stands. Williamshurg is minus two estimable cities.

rite depends not on monuments built by the skill of man, or the cunning of the artifore. "No storied urn or animated buat" case add to or detract from their glory. Their fame will be cherished as long as the nation endures; which their valor riescued from the blighting grasp of human slavery.

Still it is most appropriate that on this cannenges we should raise a monument to our country's dead heroes. It is just to considered it is just to those who shall come after us and occupy our places and come after us and occupy our places and come after us and occupy our places and the duties of American citizenship. It is appropriate that the monument to should be erected here. Looking castward rive pleasure from the walnut leaves thus should be erected here. Looking castward rive pleasure from the walnut leaves thus castly benison. Here, overlooking "wo lot months.

Williamsburg is minus two estimal zens and the landlord his little bill.

They were married December 24, 1803, by Bishop Carroll, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church and with a solemn marriage contract, drawn up by Hon. Alexander J. Dallas, ritnessed by the prominent citizens of

The young couple remained in the ing over the various sections. In the spring of 1805, after the Empire was declared by Napoleon I, he returned with his bride, but in an Imperial edict all the ports of France were closed to her, and she was not allowed to visit France, as the marriage had not met the Imperial sanction, and as it came directly in conflict with the views which the amintion and self-aggrandizement of the founder of the Napoleonic dynasty has prompted in regard to rendering his tenure of power more secure by forming brillian matrimonial alliances for his brothers with the families of the ruling monarchs.

The Church of Rome, whose sacrament had beeh insulted by the despotic action of Napoleon I, refused to recognize this virtual divorce, and Pope Pius VII invari-ably declined to approve of the second marriage of Jerome, which took place August 12, 1807, with Frederica Catharine daughter of the then King of Wirtemberg

He graduated at Harvard University in 1826, and studied law but never practiced it. He soon after his graduation married Miss Susan Mary Williams, of Roxbury, Miss Susan Mary Williams, of Roxbury, Mass, whose fortune was very large, and which; added to his own, made him one of the wealthiest men in Baltimore. He has resided in the city snee his marriage, attending to his business interests and agricultural pursuits. Mrs. Patterson Bonoparte never had an interview with her husband after his departure from her at Lisbon in 1803, but once in 1820, when, during a visit to Europe, she was gazing on the treasures of art in the Pitit Palace, at Florence, Italy, she met him visa a visit in one of the galleries. He turned to Mrs. Bonaparte No. 2, or rather the Princess de Montfort, and remarked in an undertone, andible, however, to our country woman, "that lady is my former wife." The next morning he thecked his baggage to some other city.

NEW YORK, June 1.

A frightful railway accident occurred this morning at nine o'clock, about two miles and a halt from Patersen, N. J. by which a construction train on the Delivare, Lackawana and Western Ruffund was precipitated from a treate bridge a distance of thirty feet and several people killed and wounded. The train, on which was a large force of laborers, was passing along visiting places where repairs were necessary. Several places had been attended to and the train was passing over the treatle bridge at the point where the Newark road intersects the R. W., when the bridge gave way and the entire train was precipitated to the depths below. The Master Carpenter, Mr. Campbell, and six other carpentes were instantly killed, and some thirty or forty workmen shockingly injured, being bruised and crushed by the descending masses of iron, timber and deptirs. The scene baffles description. Many workmen are buried in the ruins and to is believed the dest. workmen are buried in the ruins and it is believed that death will ensue speedily in when he says I assumgit as a fact that so soon as the Government—can resume, the banks can.

He seems to overlook the fact that when a national bank fails the Government is obliged on the instant to redeem all its circulating notes.

The banks, then, have it in their power to prevent resumption, and should the Government resume the banks could at any time compel it to suspend unless it was prepared to redeem the bank circulation and its own at the same time. Your friend's scheme would be a good compromise between the people and the banks, but as the banks are now in carnest opposition to a plan much more favorable to their interests, with seeming success, for the present, at least, there can be little thope for the success of any sort of, a compromise that the banks will not approve.

With the rejection by the House of Representatives of the Senate bill, compromises between the Congress and the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the banks will probably end, and the whole question of banks and the finances of the country may then be fought out at the polls.

The House proceeded to consideration of the bill to reduce internal taxes. In the course of the discussion Mr. Sargent stated that an estimate he had received from the Treasury Department showed that under the existing tariff and revenue laws there would be received into the Treasury next year from customs $185,000,000; from inseclance in the treasury next year from customs $185,000,000; from inseclance sources, $28,000,000; from inseclance with the treasury next year from customs $185,000,000. The estimated expenditures were $291,000,000, which would leave a surplus of $162,000,000. A few days ago he had introduced a preposition to reduce the customs I per cent. to take off the income tax and abolish all special taxes. This would leave a surplus of $22, 400,000 per year, and he had calculated that sum used as a sinking fund will in thirty-four years extinguish the instinnal debt and leave a surplus. The following is the decision rendered by Judge Grier on the twenty-second (22d) day of September, 1865, in the United States Circuit Court at Philadelphia. The case was argued three days by Charles M. Keller of New York, B. F. Lucas and S. A. Purviance of Pittsburgh, for Locates, and George Harding of Philadelphia, and George Harding of Philadelphia, and George H. Christy, of Pittsburgh, for planning:

OPINION OF JUDGE GRIKE.

As I write with difficulty I can only state the conclusions to which my mind has come after a careful examination of this case.

The complianment has exhibite case patent dated a consistent of proof of a good title, and guits on the respondents the bursten of proof that the patent is word or worthless. I need not repeat my remarks in the case of foodyear vs. Day (2 Wall, C. C. Ree; 299), but now adopt them as affording a rule of docasion which applies clearly to the present case.

As the infringence of the proof of the patent is admitted, and the will be the patent is admitted, and infringence of the proof of the proposed caperinents, that the complainant succeeded in overcoming the produce and ignorance of the people on the subject, and personaling the public that has faverance utility and value, and "when has genum and patent personaling the section of the propiet of the propiet capering of the propiets of the propiet ne applied on the lst of Noven natent for substantially the san ievices or machines contained attent. "The present case adds another chapter to thus and uniform history."—2 Wallace, C. C. Reouts n. 299.

The public is cautioned against employing any but the regularly authorized Agents of the Company, annoe the Koberts Fatent cover the use of the Corporation, and the Repulser materials for online Torque and all explosure materials for online to a direct infungation of the ROBERTS PATENTS will be dealt with according to law and as acting wiffully and knowingly in defance of law and the decessions of the Courts.

The Company have re-organized their business with a view to accommodate Oil Men in every part of the Oil Region. They have employed the most cilicent Agents and Assistants that can be proceeded in the Company, and the Company, and agency for the Company, so every Operator wishing a Torpedo may know its price and whither it came from our office.

Did Weston Walk One Hun-dred Miles. There has been a great question in New the rink, as to whether or not he walked the distance claimed, one hundred miles, and whether or not he walked through the twenty-two hours. Persons have been ound incredulous enough to assert that he did not walk the full time claimed, and that he did not do the whole distance. regard to the former proposition the New York Standard says it has at present no opinion to express, but regarding the latter it can say that the track was accurately measured on Thursday morning and that this measurement showed that miles. The measurementalluded to shows that the course actually walked by him falls much short of that measurement, and that he gained at the corners, a number of feet which, in one round, is insignificant, offer to give him one hour's start in one hundred miles for the same amount." The Medical Guzette makes several telling points against those who advocate the writing of medical prescriptions in the vernacular, on the ground that this would prevent the disastrous mistakes so freuently made by incompetent clerks in drug stores. While it is little short of prepense to employ an incompetent drug clerk, the Gazette argues against the change to meet this incompetency on other grounds. First, it will not facilitate matship. What is claimed for them..is fully grounds. First, it will not facilitate matset for the in our columns this morning.

$100 REWARD—STRAIGHT'S PATENT ATMOSPHERIC DENEAL PLATES —Having ourchased the full and exclusive right to make and sell the above plate in the city of Titusville, I hereby offer to the public one of the greatest improvements ever made in the dent d profession. No matte low difficult the mouth, it can be fitted with one of these plates so that it will be nearly, if not entirely impossible for any opened at Rice's crockery and glass-ware one to remove the places (except the wearer) without injuring the teeth or mouth. Another beauty of the invention is, that any person having a loose, dropping plate can, (provided there is nothing radically wrong in its fitting or articulation) have the "Flexible Elge" attached, so that the plate will be firm enough to bite hardest substances without danger of dropping.

This is absolutely true.

The following advantages are firmly sustained:

1-A perfect and powerful adhesics ven in the flattest mouth 2-Increasing adhesion with increasing strain on the plate 3-Perfect conformity to the muscles when in motion 4-Freedom from rocking or tipping 5-The impossibility of food getting under the plate; hence, 6—Perfect cleanliness 7—Comfort greater than is secured by any other plate. is removed when desired. 9-The lessened risks of breaking or losing the plate.

Correspondence of the Morning Aeraid.

The 30th of May was observed in this place as sacred to the memory of the fallen soldiers whose memory so fragrant in the hearts of the living.

Early morning saw the people from the country coming in on foot, in wagons, carriages and on horse back. At 9 o'clock the streets were crowded. At that time a large delegation from Tryonville arrived, escorted by the Waterford brass band, discoursing plaintive dirge music, which with the so'cmn memories of the hour, affected every heart. The post of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Good Templars dressed in their regalia, altogether formed a very large procession, marching to the grave yard, where appropriate religious services were conducted by Revs. Blaisdell, Owen and Bradford, and hundred miles in the time given out, he has another chance in a match with metals and the solutions are religious services were conducted by Revs. Blaisdell, Owen and Bradford, and hundred miles in the above odds. I also offer to give him one hour's start in one hundred walk, in the centre of the track. On turning he last twee call "clipping," which would make Wescall "clipping," which would make Wescall walk three and one fourth miles short of three hundred miles. I know this, to be the case, as I tallied and time him poster. I now challenge him to walk with me one hundred miles and time him to walk with me one hundred dollars as side. I will allow him five nulles start in one hundred miles in the time given out, he has another chance in a match with me to the public set that the public walk one hundred miles in the time given out, he has another chance in a match with me to the public walk one hundred miles in the above odds. I also defer to give him one hour's start in one hundred miles for the above odds. I have a such a suc Roys Blaisdell Owen and Bradford and the graves decorated with flowers and
